

Encourage Reading Game!

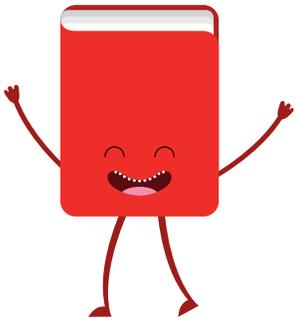

START	Which book was your favorite? Why?	If you have a book report move forward 2 spaces.	Who was your favorite character? (Book & Character)
Game Instructions: Before we begin: Write down 1 nonfiction and 1 fiction book you have read. Tip: You can get a bonus for book reports on these books.  <----When you land on me pick a card!			 It's the Talking Forest. Go forward 1 space.	Name a fiction book you have read.
Books help you learn new things. Move forward 1 space. 	What is the author's name?	Tell us 1 fact you learned from your book.	What was the plot of your fiction book?

What is the illustrator's name?	What is the setting of your fiction book?	What is the conflict in the story?	Your book fell into a puddle. Go back 3 spaces.	 Congratulations! You Won

Pick from the prize box

You have earned
1 fiction book

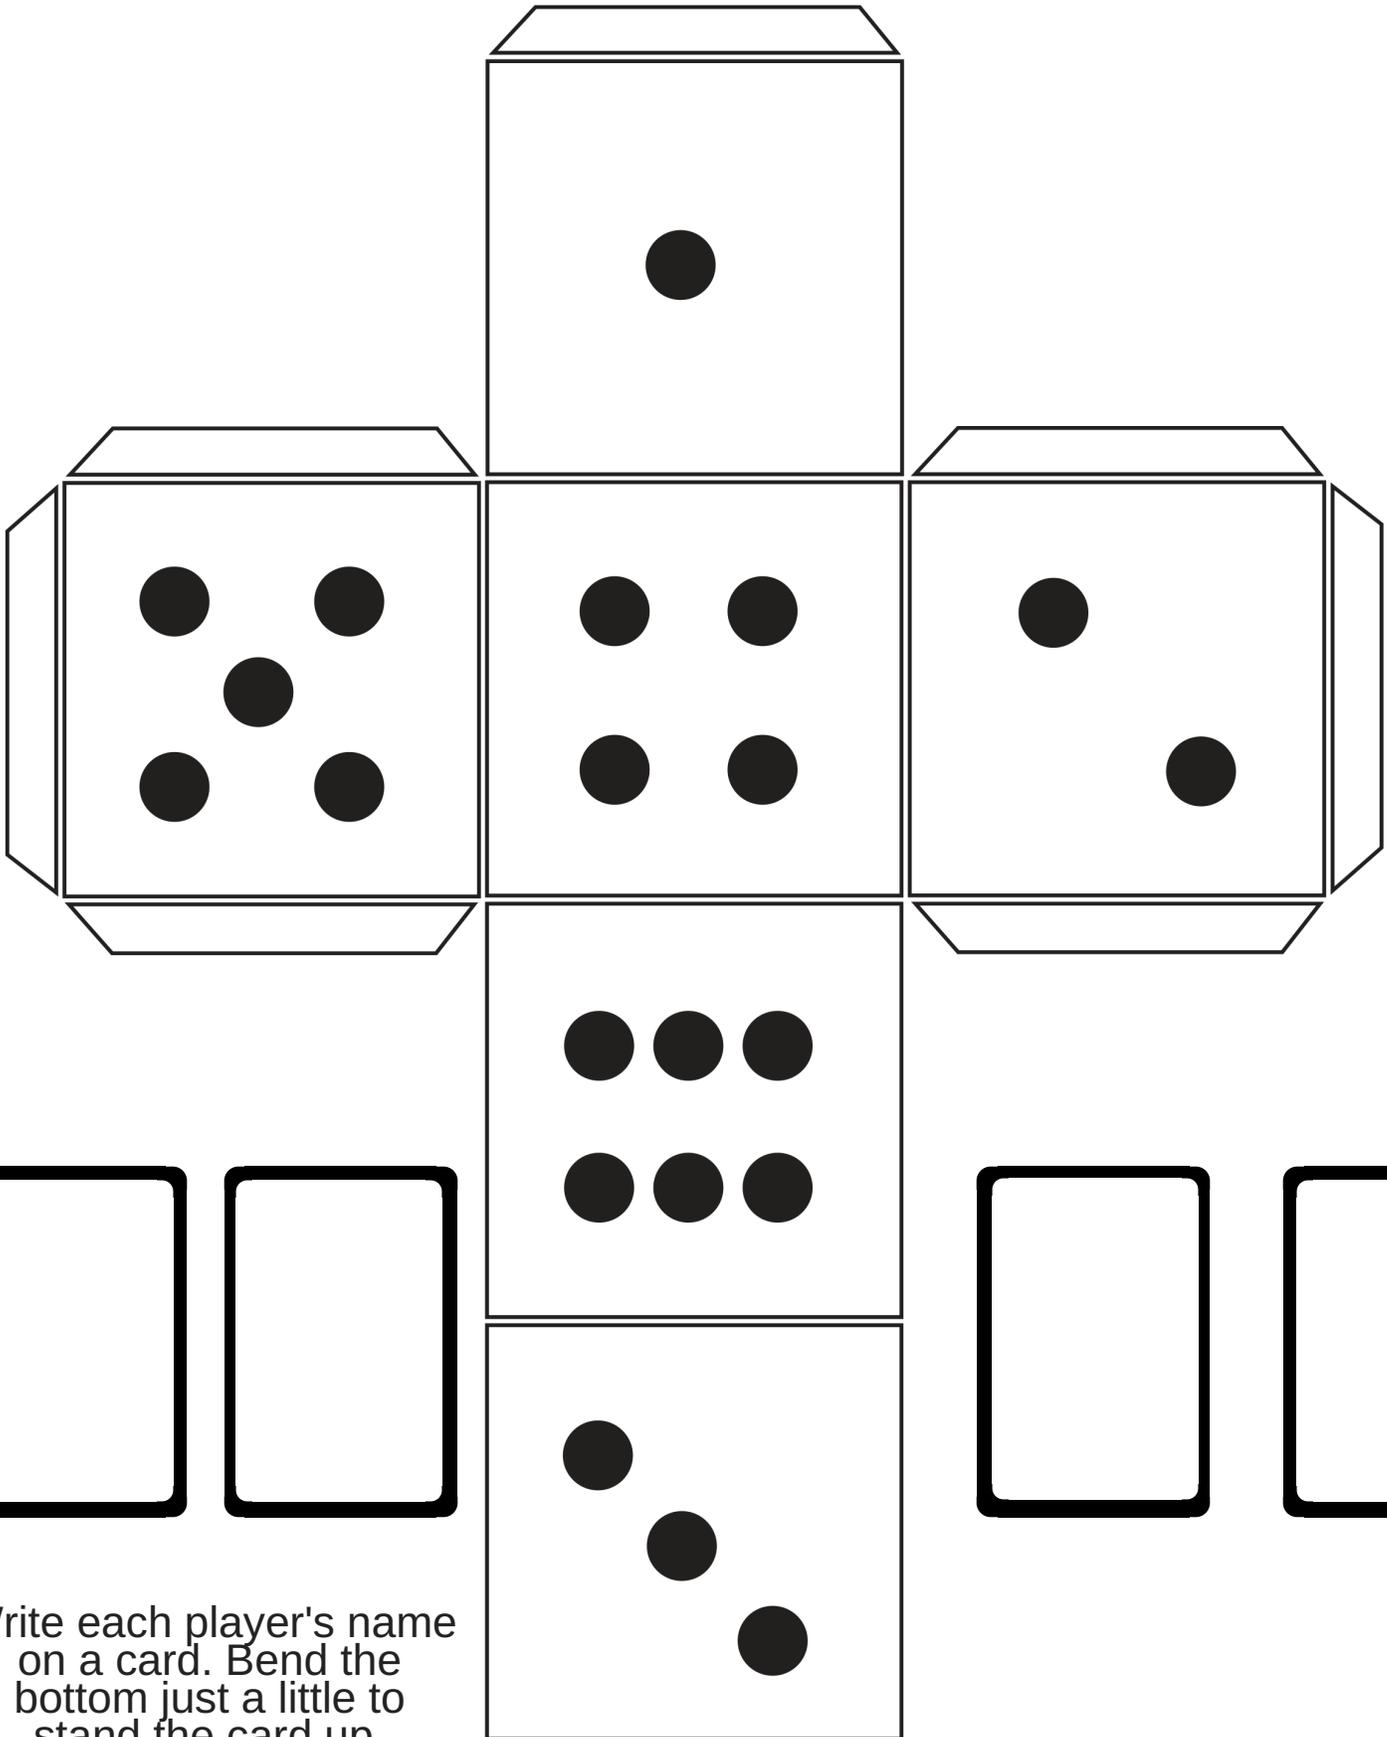

You have earned
1 nonfiction Book

Skip 1 Chore

Cut out the dice and tape it together.

Write each player's name on a card. Bend the bottom just a little to stand the card up.

Note to Parents:

I made this board game when I realized my own child was scoring low on test scores and is a reluctant reader. I know I'm not the only one out there and thought others might find this useful.

To prepare for the game there are currently only 4 cards. This means you will definitely need to purchase 1 fiction and 1 nonfiction book and some smaller prizes ($1 toys, journals, erasers, coupons you make). This will encourage them to read 2 books before playing. If you are having more than one child doing this you'll want to print off multiple cards.

Having them tell you what type is their favorite also helps YOU figure out what they prefer to read and why. This game is to get them to enjoy reading but will also prepare them for book reports.

- Eliza Ferree